Originally built by Shell, this residence was completely renovated in 2006 under the architectural direction of Atelier Lobo & Raymann. The apartment was added in 2007, once again designed by the same architectural firm. Set on a spacious 1,490 m² leasehold lot surrounded by lush greenery, the property enjoys an exceptional setting. The result is a spacious villa with a distinct tropical character and a practical, well-designed layout. Throughout the home, soaring ceilings of nearly four metres create a wonderful sense of space and openness. In addition to the traditional shutter windows and doors, the property features ventilation louvers that allow for continuous natural airflow. By opening the shutters, sliding doors and French doors, the refreshing Caribbean trade winds flow freely through the home, creating a pleasant indoor climate year-round. When the large sliding doors and French doors are fully opened, the indoor and outdoor living areas blend seamlessly into one expansive living space. Adjacent to the living room is a cozy porch with custom-built seating, the perfect place to enjoy a morning coffee.
